Neighbouring seniors appealing daycare move

Some residents don't want noise nearby

BY STEPHANIE MYLES
Didsbury Review

Residents near the proposed site of a daycare in town are trying to prevent the move.

The College Green Homeowners Association and Norm Charles, a College Green resident, are formally appealing a municipal planning commission decision to allow Kidz Playhouse Daycare to move to the lower level of the College Green Medical Centre on 20 Avenue.

Charles, whose backyard faces the yard where the children would play, said he's appealing the move because he's worried about noise and devaluation of his property.

"I bought my home with the full intentions that there would be no children allowed," he said.

College Green residences are for seniors only, and Charles said sharing a backyard with a daycare goes against the intended purpose of the complex.

Several neighbouring seniors also opposed the move before the planning commission made its decision.

Since then, others have voiced their support for the daycare.

Corrie Tomlinson, co-owner of Kidz Playhouse, said she didn't expect opposition to the move.

"It was a big shock for us. Quite a few of our parents were up in arms," she said.

"I think in the end if it does go through they're going to find that it's not as bad as they're thinking it will be. Children laughing outside is not a nuisance noise. It's a happy noise."

CORRIE TOMLINSON
Kidz Playhouse Daycare

"We didn't think we'd have a problem with anybody. Who could complain about a school or preschool or daycare coming into their community?"

Tomlinson said the move will allow Kidz Playhouse to triple the number of children it can care for. She said she's hopeful the move will be allowed, and she's willing to work with neighbours about their concerns.

"I think in the end if it does go through they're going to find that it's not as bad as they're thinking it will be," she said. "Children laughing outside is not a nuisance noise. It's a happy noise."

She said the daycare already has a waiting list, and the move would create much-needed daycare spaces in Didsbury.

The appeal hearing is scheduled for May 31 at 6 p.m. in the town office.

The daycare can't move until after the subdivision and development appeal board makes a decision.

Tomlinson said she and her business partner, Shirley Doell, are ready to finalize the purchase of the medical centre space as soon as possible. "Basically, we're ready to remove all our conditions but we're waiting for the appeal date," she said. "There's nothing holding us up except this appeal."

DAYCARE DILEMMA — Corrie Tomlinson and Shirley Doell, co-owners of Kidz Playhouse Daycare stand in front of their current location with Corrie's son Ethan Tomlinson. Tomlinson and Doell are waiting to hear whether they can move to 20 Avenue and expand their facility.

EDITORIAL & OPINION

Your letters Green bin a waste for avid composter

What is all this business about Green Bins? What a waste! (No pun intended.)

I am a single man living in Didsbury. I have been composting on my own for years, and have NEVER been able to accumulate more than one ice-cream pail worth PER WEEK. I also use this compost for my own use. Now, you, as a town, have delivered to me a 'Green Bin' that I will NEVER use! The Town has legislated that I pay tax on this 'service' that is totally useless to me. Why? Due to the Town's 'wasteful' time management practices, my domestic garbage must now sit and rot, and stink, and attract vermin, etc. for a whole two weeks before pick-up. The whole time, my 'Green-Bin' sits empty. Why is this? This is a totally unacceptable practice. I already recycle all of my other stuff (paper, tin, glass etc.). What more do you want?

I will not let the inevitable stink-bomb fester in my yard due to your council's negligence. I will pay even more taxes to take my garbage to the landfill every other week. I will also continue to recycle my other stuff, and will use the compost for my own uses.

As for my 'Green-Bin', it is stored in my shed; do you want to pick it up? I have no use for it.

Next time why don't we try to find a better way to spend our money? This one sure tops the list for the year's worst expenditure.

Just a quick question: what do you propose the large families of Didsbury do? Shall they recycle their children's soiled diapers? Are THEY compostable? Does the town office have a disposal site for them?

Too many quick decisions + poorly thought-out solutions = the mess you have placed us in, literally.

Ponderings of the Heart Receiving and giving

MARGARET FRADLEY

I have a question for my readers this week. Would you think of yourself as one that is considered a 'doer', or someone that requires a fair amount of time in 'just being'? In all probability I would belong to the latter.

I am sure we all know the story of Mary and Martha: Jesus was visiting their home, and Martha was very much occupied with getting a meal ready and soon began to feel somewhat resentful of Mary who was just sitting at the feet of Jesus, listening to Him. Martha expected Jesus to remind Mary to help out; Jesus did not scold Martha but gently reminded her that at this particular time Mary had chosen the better part. Once again we are reminded how important having a balance in our lives really is.

We simply could not exist without our faithful Marthas, always there present to help out, rarely saying 'no' because of their keen desire to help; to be available to others, but without the balance of 'Mary' in our lives we can easily wear out, burn out, or become simply exhausted.

We, of course, want to be helpful, doing all we can, but we need equal time for rest, pondering, meditation, and just a time for our spirits to catch up with our bodies, and all that we are involved with. We live in a busy world, with demands on our time on all sides, but let us remember Mary, taking the time just 'to be' and not to feel guilty about it. Have a restful week.

Woman seeking memories for grieving mother

I would like to reach out to anyone who knew Jonas Amahazion.

I have been in touch with his mother several times, and she is still in so much pain after losing her son.

I, too, lost a son several years back, and I certainly understand some of what she is going through. She has so many unanswered questions, some of which, unfortunately, will never be answered.

There are gaps in Jonas' life that she has no knowledge of. I was hoping that people that knew Jonas would be willing to take a little time to write down their memories of this remarkable young man. I want to compile these memories into a booklet to give to his mother.

If you are willing to do this, please send your memories to:

Overflowing flyers a waste

This picture is from the Didsbury Post Office on May 10, 2007. I would like to ask a question to all of those businesses who slip flyers into our newspapers. "Is this really putting your marketing dollars to the best use?" I am a resident who does not look at the flyers. When they came into our boxes directly I asked for a "No Junk Mail" on my mailbox. Now the businesses are smarter and they put all the flyers into the newspapers. I now have no choice but to take these flyers and dispose of them. The Didsbury post office is down to one garbage can...it used to be two and both overflowing. I am probably one of the few who will take the flyers home and will put them into my mixed recycling bin or use them for fire starter. My bin fills up quite fast in a month and I am getting tired of having it full of flyers I never look at. Maybe the municipalities or the newspaper who are agreeing to have these flyers inserted into their papers need to introduce a "Junk Mail Surcharge" to those businesses wanting to insert flyers. This money, based on how many houses are in the town/city, could go towards the education/maintenance for the reduction of waste, our landfills and the recycling depots in all of the municipalities in our county area. In a world where technology is growing and people are using the web more, would it not make more sense to have your flyers on your web site? There are some stores who do both. Maybe advertise this: "We care about our environment so please check out our weekly flyer on our web site or come into the location nearest you." Then people who want to look or have a flyer can.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS—GREEN BIN COMPOSTING PROGRAM

1. How do I keep my green bin from smelling?

There is a smell of composting when the bins are opened, but if they are stored with the lids closed it shouldn't be noticeable. The bins are vented and are meant for outdoor storage. It is not recommended to store your green bin in your garage or in a sunny location.

2. How do I clean my green bin?

It is recommended that residents hose out their bins once or twice a year.

3. When I clean my bin, won't the water be contaminated?

This hasn't been an issue in any other community's that this program is operating in. There has been no evidence of any cross-contamination of material.

4. Can I put cat and/or dog feces in the bin?

Yes, as long as it is not in a plastic bag. Animal shavings from cages and sawdust are NOT allowed in the compost bins.

5. Can I put grass clippings, twigs and branches in the bin?

Grass clippings and twigs no wider than your little finger are allowed in the bins. Branches and stumps can be taken to the landfill site.

Future politicians to get job primer

Area municipalities plan to host election information session

BY PAUL FREY
For the Didsbury Review

Members of the Municipal Area Partnership will be hosting an information session June 14 at the Royal Canadian Legion No. 105 in Olds.

The session will allow those interested in pursuing a seat on one of the area's councils to get an idea about the time commitment and duties involved in serving the public.

"It's a true picture of what it takes to be an elected official."

JUDY DAHL
Mayor of Olds

Olds mayor Judy Dahl said the idea is to hand out generic elections packages at the meeting, with each council then separating into groups with those interested in running for that specific council and explaining to those individuals how councillors actually spend their time.

"These are the types of meetings you'll be going to, this is our organization structure," she said. "So when you decide to let your name stand for a Town of Olds councillor, you need to know that you're committed to attend this, this and this."

Dahl said the session is meant to make sure that every candidate knows before the election the time commitment involved.

"It's a true picture of what it takes to be an elected official. For every meeting that you have, there's a committee meeting or there's a sub (committee) meeting so there's at least a 40 per cent contingency of time allotment that you need that's a hidden one," she said.

Following the election in October there will be another session for successful candidates, giving them a primer on the Municipal Government Act.

The June 14 session will begin at 7 p.m.

Plan approval paves way for 600 homes

Council addresses higher-density concerns in approval

BY STEPHANIE MYLES
Didsbury Review

Plans for Didsbury's new hundred-acre subdivision are now in place but some residents are concerned about the size of the development.

Town council gave second and third reading to the neighbourhood structure plan for Fieldstone, a subdivision that will eventually see up to 600 single-family homes in the southwest corner of town.

"I, personally, don't feel the town is ready for that great population moving in," said Ed Smith, who lives on Westpoint Drive, bordering the site.

"We do not have a good taxpaying business section in town. We rely only on taxes from housing and it isn't enough to support the amount of money we're going to have to put out to put in roads to upgrade our water system and our sewer system and our schools."

Before approving the plan, council yielded to neighbours' concerns about higher-density development in their backyards. All lots adjacent to Westpoint Drive must be zoned R1, a lower density than the rest of the subdivision, which is R2.

"We were concerned that they wouldn't be putting duplexes in behind our houses," said Ron Boyko, who lives on Westpoint Drive, adding that he's happy with the change but still concerned with the size of the subdivision.

"I, personally, don't feel the town is ready for that great population moving in."

ED SMITH
Fieldstone neighbour

"We're happy with what is going in behind us," said Smith. "At least I think we are. We'll know better when they get it built."

Council also amended the neighbourhood structure plan to increase the overall project density to five to seven units per acre, up from four to seven. Coun. Ernie Ryckman said this would help achieve council's goal of a density of 5.3 units per acre for future development in town.

The first phase of Fieldstone will see the construction of 159 new homes - 101 "starter" and 58 "move-up" - developed at a higher density than most of Didsbury's older residential areas.

The subdivision will be bordered by Westpoint Drive, 23 Street, 7 Avenue and Mountain View Estates.

Consultants from the City of Airdrie made several recommendations on the plan before it was approved, including designating a section of land environmental reserve to preserve the small creek running through the property.

The consultants recommended constructing sidewalks on both sides of the subdivision's two main roads, but the plan includes a pedestrian and bike path on one side only.

The plan includes green space running east-west across the subdivision, with two large parks, pathways connecting to the rest of town, and a small commercial area on 7 Avenue.

Nearly half the land in the plan is undeveloped, with room for about 400 more lots.

Rezoning and subdivision of the land are the next steps in the development, owned by Didsbury Developments Ltd., a division of Montreal-based Steckmar National Realty.

Representatives from Didsbury Developments have said they hope to start construction in August.

Didsbury, Olds host ArtWalk

A visual art group trying to increase art and culture awareness in the area is launching a unique event in Olds and Didsbury this summer linking business with the arts.

ArtWalk will pair local talented artists with local businesses, giving the artists a place to display their work while giving the business a fresh approach to show off their business.

"It's about trying something different to benefit all," said organizer Dee Poisson of the Wellspring Visual ArtNetwork.

The organization is relatively new and intends to promote cultural opportunities in an area between Red Deer and Calgary.

The board of Wellspring Visual ArtNetwork Association is pleased with the response of local Didsbury and Olds businesses to the proposed ArtWalk expected to run during the months of July and August.

"It is like taking a treasure map and instead of finding only one spot on the map to look for treasure, there will be a lot of spots," said Poisson.

An artist will be paired with a local business and both will be identified as a location on the ArtWalk map.

The public is invited to journey to each of the participating businesses using the map to guide them.

Artwork can be purchased at the participating business destinations.

Maps will be available throughout July and August at the participating destinations and at any other place wishing to display them.

Wellspring Visual ArtNetwork Association is dedicated to establishing a network of visual artists in rural central Alberta, to raise awareness of artists' works and to enhance culture in the local community through visual arts experiences.

The association is striving to bring visual artists and the communities together giving the artists an opportunity to showcase their original works of art and to help bring a creative culture to the Central Alberta communities.

There is still some space available for business destinations. All inquiries can be addressed to Dee Poisson 335-8389 or dpoisson@shaw.ca.

May Monarch raises over $25,000 for high school students

BY STEPHANIE MYLES
Didsbury Review

Didsbury High School students have some extra spending money thanks to a record-breaking May Monarch fundraiser.

The students raised $25,711 this year to beat last year's total of about $24,000.

The annual fundraiser is also a competition between grades, and as predicted, the Class of 2007 raised the most money – a whopping $8,263.

Grade 12 students Brittany Robertson and Jeff Kerr are now May Monarch queen and king.

"It's pretty cool to see that we raised that much money," said Kerr.

"We just put in some crazy hours."

From May 8 to 12, students raised money working odd jobs throughout the community. The money goes to student council and directly benefits the students who worked for it.

"We're lacking money in our grad right now so we're hoping to raise a lot," said Jennyce Hoffman, a Grade-12 student council member, before the competition.

Money raised by Grade 12 students goes toward their graduation.

"We just put in some crazy hours."

Candid confession leads to jail time

BY JODI STYNER
For the Didsbury Review

A 29-year-old man who confessed to committing various crimes to police has been handed a jail sentence.

Mark Edward Koenig pleaded guilty in Didsbury Provincial Court May 14 to a charge of theft over $5,000, two charges of breaking and entering, and a mischief charge, stemming from a November 2006 incident.

On November 28, 2006 at approximately 11:30 a.m. Didsbury Sgt. Kevin O'Dwyer was on routine patrol when he noticed a vehicle parked on the side of a rural road near Didsbury in -30 C weather and went over to investigate, court heard.

"But for his confession, he likely wouldn't be here."

lawyer

A man, later identified as Mark Koenig, was sleeping in the driver's seat.

Sgt. O'Dwyer ran the licence plate and discovered the vehicle - a 2001 Honda Civic - was reported stolen from Calgary.

When Sgt. O'Dwyer woke Koenig and asked him about the stolen vehicle, Koenig admitted to the theft immediately.

"I'll give up the goose right now," he told Sgt. O'Dwyer. "I don't have any right to have this car."

Upon further discussions with the police at the Didsbury detachment, Koenig revealed that he had stolen a woman's purse from a N.W. Calgary pub two weeks earlier and used the address on her ID to locate the car.

He further admitted to breaking into Five-Star Fuels Ltd. and Bella Day Spas and Aesthetics and taking an unknown amount of petty cash.

Koenig also assisted police in with other investigations he was not directly involved in.

During the May 14 hearing, the Crown prosecutor suggested Judge Judith Shriar impose a three-year global term of federal incarceration, given the planned and deliberate nature of the crime coupled with Koenig's lengthy and related criminal record.

Koenig served 15 months in 2004 for a theft involving a former employer.

He has been in custody for more than five months on the current charges.

Koenig's counsel, Brian Forestell, argued that a two-year conditional sentence order, that would allow his client to serve his term in the community, would be more appropriate considering his cooperation with police.

"But for his confession, he likely wouldn't be here," said Forestell. "It's impressive that he made such a candid confession."

Judge Shriar said Koenig's inability to hold down a job for more than a month at a time and his lack of community support don't bode well for his ability to succeed on the streets. Nor does his admitted substance abuse problem.

Koenig addressed the court, saying he is aware of his drug and alcohol problem and wants to get back on his feet, but feels jail isn't the place to do that.

"I've taken advantage of every substance abuse program I can (in jail),"

Koenig told the judge. "It's very hard in remand to address those issues."

Koenig said jail has become a comfortable place for him and going back would be a 'cop out'.

"It's not reality in there," he said. "It's harder for me to live in society because I have to learn to cope with my problems."

Since his November arrest, Koenig has been in touch with AADAC and has put himself on a wait list for a bed at Fresh Start, in the event that he might be allowed to serve his term in the community.

Judge Shriar handed Koenig an 18-month jail term, crediting the 157 days he's already served on a two-for-one basis, bringing the actual length of incarceration to eight months, followed by one year probation.

Calgary Stampede to have new features

Opening July 7 with an hour-long parade, revamped to give a dramatic picture of the Old West, the 62nd annual Calgary Stampede is expected to break all prizes and attendance records during the 1947 season.

This year commercial floats will be eliminated from the Monday morning Stampede Parade, to create a spectacle that is entirely Western. Officials of the annual show said that communities from outside Calgary have been most co-operative in agreeing to sponsor parade exhibits indicative of the past or present life of their community. Residents of rural areas have also assisted in locating old-time vehicles - Red River carts, Conestoga wagons, stagecoaches and prairie schooners - for display in the Parade.

With a record-breaking purse of $7,500 offered in the chuckwagon races, the rangeland derby - the only one of its kind in the world - expects an all-time high in the number of entries.

Prize money for livestock is being maintained at last year's record breaking figure, with special prizes offered by the Alberta Horse Breeders' Association combined with those given by the Exhibition Company in the heavy horse classes.

The Stampede Accommodation Bureau will operate

Looking Back

Excerpts from May 28, 1947 Didsbury Pioneer to provide sleeping accommodation for those unable to secure rooms in hotels and tourist cabins, and Calgary citizens are already offering to throw their homes open to visitors in the city during Stampede week.

Neighbour put in crop for Stanley Coleman

The good neighbour spirit of farmers in and around the Big Prairie district was evident last week when over a dozen tractors turned out to put in the crop for Stanley Coleman, who is recovering from an operation.

The ladies, not to be outdone, provided a feast, the like of which we seldom see. There was turkey, chicken, boiled ham, pickles, vegetables and pies of all descriptions. You couldn't finish - you just stopped eating.

In the middle of the afternoon the ladies commandeered a jeep for their hampers and coffee pots and served lunch, buffet style, to which men flocked like bees.

The assortment of tractors, caterpillars and jeeps was then lined up and cameras clicked before the men were allowed to return to the field to finish up a good job, well done.

Hamlet of Sundre gets a resident physician

Dr. C. A. Miller, formerly of Cereal, Alberta has taken up practice as resident physician in Sundre.

This is the first time that a physician has been in residence at Sundre and the people are proud of the fact.

For the time being, Dr. Miller will be located in the E. Goodland residence.

Dr. Miller graduated in medicine from McGill University in 1929 and during the war years served as medical officer at the Ozada internment camp near Kananaskis. Prior to that time he was in practice in the Peace River country.

Sundre is rapidly developing into the status of a town and Dr. Miller's arrival will prove a boom to the settlers in the west country.

Fallen Timber Notes

Mrs. Ray Teynor is home from the hospital following an operation and is progressing favourably.

The next meeting of the Busy Bees will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Moncey on June 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Stringer were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Moncey. Mr. Ed Anderson of Didsbury was also a Sunday visitor at the Moncey home.

W. M. Moncey and B. Teynor were recent visitors at the P. J. Fair home.

The Fallen Timber river rose so high, about 10 days ago, that it took the walking bridges out and the children could not attend school for a week.

Seeding is well on its way and Bill Dick has put in all his crop.

Wayne Roberts has moved on to the Montgomery place.

The 1947 special allowance of sugar for canning will be 10 lbs. per person. As in previous years this special allowance of sugar for canning will be in addition to the regular sugar ration. It will be made available in tow amounts of five pounds each.

The world sugar situation has been improving and has made possible the recent increases in the Canadian allowances. World supplies, however, are still inadequate to meet demand, requiring continued rationing.

The facts about mammography

Testing recommended for women over 50

1. A mammogram is an X-ray of the breast.
2. There are two types of mammograms: screening and diagnostic
3. Screening mammograms check for abnormalities that may be breast cancer.
4. Diagnostic mammograms are performed when an abnormality has been found.
5. Women age 50 and over should have a screening mammogram every two years or as recommended by their doctor. (Age is the main risk factor for breast cancer; 80 per cent of cases occur in women over 50.)
6. Many studies have shown that regular screening mammography among women age 50 to 69 reduces breast cancer deaths.
7. For women 40 to 49, research findings about mammography are less clear. Some studies have shown that mammography is beneficial in this age group while other studies have shown no benefit.
8. Four X-rays are usually taken for each screening mammogram appointment.
9. For each X-ray, the breast is compressed (flattened) for a few seconds. Compression does not damage breast tissue.
10. Mammograms use a low level of radiation, less than a chest X-ray.
11. All mammograms are free of charge and Screen Test screening mammograms do not require a doctor's referral for women 40 or more years old.
12. Many women get mammograms because of a friend's encouragement. Be a breast friend to a woman in your life - pass this on to her!

Is it time for your mammogram? Screen Test is in Didsbury June 11, 12, 18, 19, 20, 25 and 26. Call 1-800-667-0604 (toll free) today for your appointment.

Immunization Awareness

Will my child be better protected if they are naturally infected than if they are immunized?

Some people believe that natural infection is the best way to develop immunity. Immunity induced by vaccines is as effective as immunity induced by disease with far fewer side effects. The diseases that are vaccinated for carry a great risk of causing harm. For example the price paid for natural infection may include birth defects from rubella, liver cancer from Hepatitis B, flesh-eating disease from chicken pox or inflammation of the brain from measles. Expected side effects from vaccines are mild and may include: local irritation, fever and/or mild rash. The risks associated with vaccine are much fewer and much less severe than those associated with disease.

- Reliable Canadian immunization websites include:
- www.health.gov.ab.ca/public/immunization.html
 - www.cps.ca
 - www.caringforkids.cps.ca
 - www.phac-aspc.gc.ca

Puppies@your library...

Some of you may have noticed a young dog in the library, wearing a yellow vest and accompanied by her trainer, Coreen Froese. Belle is in training to become an assist dog and if you would like to learn more about assist dogs and their programs, join us at the library Saturday, June 2 at 1:00 pm. Representatives from Pacific Assistance Dogs (or PADS) will be here with their dogs to put them through their paces, and to demonstrate for you the kinds of assistance they can provide young and old. You can also learn more about this effective and heartwarming program through a book which Coreen has generously donated to the Didsbury Municipal Library. It is called Love Heels and it is full of marvelous pictures and examples of the good work that these dogs and their trainers do. You will enjoy seeing how PADS' amazing puppies in training grow up to become a source of support and independence for many individuals living with a variety of disabilities throughout Western Canada.

While you are here, you may want to check out our array of books on various dog breeds, obedience training, and other pet needs.
